Although a very long book, Noel Barber's flowing style makes this story a delight to read, aided by the fact that, as the author of an excellent first-hand account as a journalist of the fall of Singapore to the Japanese, his knowledge of the area and the events are unrivalled. I cannot recommend this book too highly.

'Noel Barber has always done everything in a big way, with style, panache and a dash of adventure. But he has never written a story of such dimensions, such a sense of history and imagination as this first novel . . . it is an intensely gripping and convincing story' (Manchester Evening News)
